Drills
Games (13:00)
Closing (:00)

OBJECTIVES:
Students will orally recall information about how to hold and move a basketball.
Students will demonstrate their ability to control the basketball by demonstrating the different drills.
Students will demonstrate good sportsmanship by encouraging their classmates and teaching others that are having a harder time with the drills

TEKS:

Drills:
Slaps – Pound or slap the ball from one hand to the other, this can be used when inbounding the ball
Circles – controlling the ball around different parts of the body, both feet, waist, head
Candy cane – Moving the ball around the body starting low and traveling up the body to the head then back down
Around leg – control the ball around one leg (switch leg after 10-15 circles)
Drops – while holding the ball between legs with one hand in front of the body and the other behind, drop the ball and switch the hands (repeat)
Dribbling normal – waist height
Dribbling low – as low as possible
Varied heights – start normal and lower down then back up (increase speed as you get more comfortable)
Dribbling V – Alternating dribbling with your right hand then your left hand – the ball bounces in front of the body and travels a V pattern

L-Cuts, fades, and curl cuts would be good examples of this. Here is how to use chairs to do this. Using Chairs With a Helper Chairs can also be good to use if you have somebody to help who is not a very good passer. This can be a friend, sibling, guardian, or anybody. After each shot, they can retrieve the ball and place it back on the chair. That way, you don¯Ã¿Â½Ât have to waste your time rebounding. You can immediately start your next repetition and you can get more shots up. Important! How To Game-Like Random Shots With No Defenders Every time you catch the basketball, you have to make choices. However, how often do you do that in your shooting drills!? A lot of players and even coaches neglect this important aspect of shooting drills. This can be part of the reason that some players shoot great during drills but poorly during games! They never train this way! 1v1 shooting drills and other 2v2 and 3v3 drills can easily take care of this. And you should definitely do a lot of this in your training. However, what do you do if you don¯Ã¿Â½Ât have a defender to compete against? Or maybe you just want to get a lot of shooting repetitions up to develop some rhythm and confidence? It¯Ã¿Â½Às simple. You just need to find somebody who can rebound and display visual cues. Even if you have defenders available, this can be used as a great progression prior to playing against live defenders. Coach Chris Oliver shows you how to do this in the following drill. It¯Ã¿Â½Às pretty cool! All minnows have basketball. Instructions In ‘go’ the minnows will try to tibble from one end to the other while the sharks try to take down their balls. If a player has his ball shot down by a shark, they join the shark team. Players will reboot and then try to finish again, continuing until all players have become sharks. Coaching Tips Remember the minnows to keep your head up - the most successful players will be those who can dribble with speed, control, all while keeping your eyes on the sharks! Makes it harder: To give a greater challenge to the sharks, ask them to pursue the minnows around the court while dribbling. You can also make the minnows dribble two balls to really challenge your ballhandling. Make it easier: If sharks are having difficulty, you can add an extra shark to start the game. If the minnows are struggling, cutting the distance they need to travel to the mid-court line can help. A fun, fast-paced basketball drill for children - works in free shot throws under pressure and high speed ballhandling. Configuration Split the team into two groups, and have them form two lines - the shooting team in the free launch line with two balls, and the dribbling team where the sideline meets the baseline, each with its own ball. Instructions The dribbling team will be acting as ‘baserunners’, while the shooting team is trying to get them ‘out’ hitting on a jumpshot. At the trainer's signal, the dribbler will dribble out half block and down the opposite sideline, trying to get back to 'home' as soon as possible. If a player makes all the way before the shooter can make a jump, they get 1 point. If the shooter scores while they are still running, they are ‘out’ and they shouldduntil the whole team is out and the teams exchange paps.
